Shorthand System
by Charles LeRoy Scamahorn

Proba --- Script shorthand gives you the power to write four times faster and the complete system is shown on this single page.

The word man is made of m  and n  and is written . That word can be added to the letter w  to form the word woman . Words are spelled normally but with the vowels (a-e-i-o-u) omitted --- except that the sounded vowels at the end of words may be written, as in the word mana . Words starting with a consonant begin on the center-line but words starting with a vowel are shifted up or down, away from the center-line, to a new position that indicates the omitted initial vowel; amen  emanate  man  immense  omen  unmanned . Each letter within a word begins where the previous letter ends. Write names, places and quirkies first and then put in their vowels. Underline their first uses.

Insert omitted letters lightly afterwards if needed as in: man  men  mine  mean  mien  moan .
